

EFF OBSERVES RELIGIOUS COMMEMORATIONS OVER THE LONG WEEKEND

Thursday, 14 April 2022

The EFF observes the four religious commemorations over the long weekend. It is Ramadan for the Muslim community, Lent and Easter for the Christian community, Rama Navami for Hindi the community and Passover for the Jewish community.

We call on the believers of their respective faiths to deeply reflect and act on the common teaching of love for humanity. Our country is in a midst of a deadly natural disaster. The death toll in the Kwa-Zulu Natal floods continues to spike. As things stand, over 300 people are recorded dead. Human life and livelihoods have literally been swallowed by the earth or washed away by gushing waters. Let us be counted as practitioners of our respective faiths and help the destitute in Kwa-Zulu Natal in whatever capacity we can. There is something each of us can do.

Let us unite against the rising plague of xenophobia being promoted by those who fail to acknowledge human equality and the equal rights we all have to dignity and respect.

Let us denounce indoctrinated patriarchy in our religious practices as it is an enabler to Gender Based Violence brutality and Femicide.

We call on the adherents of all religions to continue to be actively involved in addressing the dire state of our nation.

Above all, let's be overly cautious on the roads. It is exasperating that year in and year out, the road carnage is increasingly distressing.

From the Winnie Madikizela Mandela House, a Blessed Easter Weekend, a Ramadan Kareem, a Joyous Pesach and a Prosperous Rama Navami.
